FRUITA.

Thos Morgan of near Fruita is finishing a barn for himself 52x100 feet. When completed it will contain no less than sixteen thousand feet of lumber.

L. J. Purcell alias L. J. Pisell, has been visiting with his daughter Mrs Wm. Himelwright of Freeze-out, for some days. Mr. Purcell claims to have built the second log cabin in the Park 18 years ago. The first he says was built by Cox & Roland at the mouth of Grouse Creek on J. F. Rich's homestead. The Purcell cabin was built on the Imnaha river in a grove of century pines just above the saddle. This cabin stands on the homestead of J. A. Blevans. Both of these historic cabins are still standing, but like their builders they are fast falling into decay.

Mrs. Marion Coverdale loaned her saddle pony a few days ago to a friend to ride out to Joseph. While crossing the Imnaha-Sheep creek divide in a fearful snow storm Mr. Lynch lost his geographical bearings and slid the borrowed pony to its death.

The first snow of the season fell on the 18th. Since then we have had all sorts of weather. At this writing stock of all kinds are doing well on the river ranges snow having intirely disappeared from the low slopes.

LOSTINE.

The weather is just immense. Farmers are feeling good over the prospects for next year.

Supt J. C. Conley is visiting our schools this week.

J. F. Burleigh and O. F. Mays have bought the property formerly occupied by Mr. Gregg and have moved their office to that building.

H. A. Smith the new barber has ordered a pool table and will run a pool room just back of the barber shop.

The room formerly occupied by J. F. Burleigh has been remodelled and will be used for confectionery and jewelry.

Chas. Prestel is doing himself in beautifying McCully Co's, store for christmas. Don't fail to see that window.

The Lostine Sunday School is increasing in numbers and interest. The quarterly review will be a novel feature. Forty scenes covering the quarter will be thrown upon the screen by a stereopticon and will be accompanied by appropriate music and recitations.

Mrs. Lacert moved her millinery department to her home as she could get no room in town.

Christmas will be properly observed at Lostine this year the schools run until Wednesday before Christmas and will have exercises on that day. There will be a Christmas tree in the church at night and during the short program the real Santa Claus will appear.

President's Western Trip.

Washington Dec. 5.—President Roosevelt is now making the tentative arrangements for his trip to the Pacific coast next spring. According to the present allotment of time, he will be in Oregon during May and will visit Portland after passing through the Willamette Valley from California. He plans to go west over the southern route, going north through Oregon to the Puget Sound cities, and thence home by way of Spokane.

While the President desires to visit Alaska, he tells Senator Foster that he doubts if his time will permit of this side trip.

The fact that the President is arranging for this trip in May does away with the talk of an extra session. If such a session is found necessary it will be called later in the year.

Land Grab Discovered

Washington, Dec. 8.—The watchfulness of Representative Moody in committee on Indian affairs has prevented another land grabbing scheme of the first water slipping in the Indian appropriation bill as an innocent-looking amendment. Just as the House committee was about to report the bill, Acting Chairman Curtis presented an amendment which he said was recommended by the Indian Office, providing that, where Indian reservations, created subsequent to transcontinental railways, were found to embrace alternate sections belonging to such railroads, the companies should have the right to relinquish these sections and select in lieu thereof lands of equal area land, in the public domain, either from the surveyed or unsurveyed land.

Moody recognized that this was a provision even more sweeping than the forest reserve lieu selection was proving and so informed the committee. After its evil effects were pointed out, the provision was sent back to the Indian Office with a request that the Commissioner frame an amendment either proposing to purchase these lands direct from the Indians or permit an exchange in an equitable basis.

As he pursued the case further Mr. Moody found that the legislation was suggested by one of the land grant roads which owns over a million and a half acres of land in Indian reservations in New Mexico and Arizona, lands not over 1 cent an acre, but which under the proposed legislation could be exchanged for land worth $10 an acre and more. This is only one of several roads that would benefit.

Now that the purpose of the innocent looking provision is known, there is little danger of its incorporation in the bill. When the railroad attorneys laid their case before the department they grossly misrepresented the facts and managed to throw a blind over the eyes of Indian Office officials. Had it not been for Mr. Moody, this scheme would have gotten in the bill and probably passed.
